

Application

360 Technology's Code of Business Conduct and Ethics (the "Code") covers a wide range of business practices and procedures. It does not cover every issue that may arise, but sets out basic principles to guide all directors, officers, employees and independent contractors of the Company (collectively, "Company Personnel"). "360 Technology" or the "Company", as used in this Code, means 360 Technology Inc. and its subsidiaries and affiliates.

All Company Personnel must conduct themselves accordingly and seek to avoid even the appearance of improper behavior. Furthermore, all Company Personnel are required to ensure that their personal and professional dealings are conducted in an honest and ethical manner and are free of any deceitful, fraudulent or illegal activities. The responsibilities of each Company Personnel include helping to create and maintain a culture of high ethical standards and a commitment to compliance.

In the case of directors and officers, responsibilities involve maintaining a work environment that encourages Company Personnel to raise concerns with management and promptly addressing Company Personnel compliance concerns.

If a law conflicts with a policy in this Code, the Company Personnel must comply with the law. If a local custom or policy conflicts with this Code, the Company Personnel must comply with this Code. If you have any questions about these conflicts, you should ask your manager or other appropriate personnel in superior position with the Company on how to handle the situation. The Company is responsible for administering this Code and the General Counsel of the Company, or a designate in the Company's legal department is the designated contact person for any questions regarding the Code.

It is the responsibility of each Company Personnel to read and become familiar with the principles set out in the Code and the following Company policies and to integrate them into every aspect of the business of the Company.

If Company Personnel find themselves in a situation that they believe may violate or lead to a violation of this Code, they should follow the guidelines described below under "Compliance Procedures".

Code of Conduct and Ethics

Compliance with Laws, Rules and Regulations

The Company is subject to a number of laws, rules and regulations with respect to the conduct of its business. Obeying the law, both in letter and in spirit, is the foundation on which the Company's ethical standards are built and is critical to our reputation and continued success. All Company Personnel must respect and obey the laws of the various jurisdictions in which the Company operates and avoid even the appearance of impropriety. Although not all Company Personnel are expected to know the details of these laws, it is important to know enough to determine when to seek advice from your manager or other senior personnel. The General Counsel of the Company or a designate in the Company's legal department is available to assist Company Personnel in determining applicable legal requirements and to seek the advice of external legal counsel where appropriate.

The Code does not purport to address all areas of the law that Company Personnel might encounter in the day-to-day business of the Company. The following areas however, should be specifically noted:

1. Human Rights, Discrimination and Harassment:

The diversity of Company Personnel is a tremendous asset. The Company is firmly committed to providing equal opportunity in all aspects of employment and other forms of work. All Company Personnel have a responsibility for maintaining acceptable standards of personal behavior and for ensuring that others have the opportunity to carry out their work assignments in a businesslike atmosphere free from harassment and discrimination on any of the following grounds: race, ethnicity, political affiliation, religion, gender, sexual orientation, age, marital and family status or disability. Any form of harassment or discrimination is prohibited.

Examples include derogatory comments based on racial or ethnic characteristics and unwelcome sexual advances. Violence and threatening behavior are not permitted. Company Personnel are encouraged to speak with either Human Resources or the General Counsel of the Company when a co-worker's conduct makes them uncomfortable and to report harassment when it occurs. The Company will not tolerate any conduct that is discriminatory or harassing or otherwise compromises an individual's human rights.

2. Health and Safety:

The Company strives to provide all Company Personnel with a safe and healthy work environment. All Company Personnel have responsibility for maintaining a safe and healthy workplace by following safety and health rules and practices and reporting accidents, injuries and unsafe equipment, practices or conditions to a supervisor or department head. Impairment in the workplace will not be tolerated, whether by drugs or alcohol, including prescription drugs (including medical marijuana), illegal use, recreational use, or otherwise.

3. Privacy:

The Company is committed to maintaining the accuracy, confidentiality, security and privacy of the personal information of its clients, its clients' employees, suppliers and Company employees. Company Personnel who have access to personal information are expected to support the efforts of the Company to develop, implement and maintain procedures and policies designated to manage personal information. Company Personnel must comply with the Confidential Information Policy and the Privacy Policy and Privacy Charter developed by the Company.

4. Competition:

Competition laws are enacted to limit practices that are seen to impair the function of free and open marketplace. A complete description of these laws is beyond the scope of this Code, however they include price fixing, bid rigging, price discrimination, and boycotting certain suppliers or clients.

Company Personnel having regular dealings with clients and suppliers should become familiar with these laws as non-compliance can result in severe penalties imposed on both the Company and the individual involved. Please see the section below on Competition and Fair Dealing for more information.

5. Professional and Industry Standards:

Company Personnel are required to comply with internal policies and procedures, relevant laws and regulations and rules of professional conduct and standards of practice established by outside professional and industry organizations, including the Canadian Institute of Actuaries, the International Society of Certified Employee Benefit Specialists and Professional Counselling Associations.

Conflicts of Interest

A "conflict of interest" exists when a person's private interests or activities interfere in any way with the interests of the Company. A conflict of interest can arise when Company Personnel take actions or have interests that may make it difficult for them to perform their work for the Company objectively and effectively. Conflicts of interest also may arise when Company Personnel or members of their families receive improper personal benefits as a result of their positions with the Company.

All Company Personnel are required to act objectively, in the best interests of the client without bias that may benefit the Company or the Company Personnel. It is imperative that the Company avoid the perception of, or actual conflicts of interest between the Company and the client, the Company and Company Personnel, or the client and Company Personnel.

The Company respects the right to privacy in the personal activities and financial affairs of Company Personnel however it is the responsibility of each Company Personnel to ensure that his or her personal conduct complies with the following principles, which are not intended to address every potential conflict situation.

1. Employment or other Affiliation with a Competitor, Supplier or Client: Company Personnel may not compete with the Company directly or indirectly which includes acting as directors, officers, employees, consultants or agents of entities that compete directly with the business of the Company without the approval of the Governance and Nominating Committee of the Board. Company Personnel owe a duty to the Company to advance its legitimate interests when the opportunity to do so arises. Company Personnel shall notify the Company on an annual basis through an automated process coordinated by the Human Resources Department if they are acting as directors or officers of outside companies, non-profits or other organizations, including those that are clients and suppliers of the Company.
2. Independent Business Ventures: Company Personnel may not engage in independent business ventures or agree to perform services for other businesses if the activity will interfere with the Company Personnel's devotion of time and effort to the conduct of the business of the Company or otherwise affect his or her ability to work effectively. Company Personnel are prohibited from taking for themselves personal opportunities that are discovered through the use of corporate property, information or positions without the consent of the Board and from using corporate property, information or positions for improper personal gain.
3. Personal Benefits, Gifts, Entertainment, Bribes and Kickbacks: As set out in the Company's Anti - Corruption and Bribery Policy, Company Personnel may not use their position as Company Personnel to derive or secure any personal, financial or other benefit for themselves or their relatives.

Business gifts and entertainment are customary courtesies designed to build goodwill and constructive relationships among business partners. These courtesies may include such things as meals and beverages, tickets to sporting or cultural events, discounts not available to the general public, accommodation and other merchandise or services. In some cultures, they play an important role in business relationships. However, a problem may arise when these courtesies compromise, or appear to compromise, the Company's ability to make fair and objective business decisions or could result in the Company gaining an unfair advantage.

Offering or receiving any gift, gratuity or entertainment that might be perceived to unfairly influence a business relationship should be avoided. These guidelines apply at all times and do not change during traditional gift-giving seasons.

No gift or entertainment should ever be offered, given, provided, authorized or accepted by any Company Personnel or their family members unless it is not a cash gift, is consistent with customary business practices, is not excessive in value, cannot be construed as a bribe, kickback or payoff and does not violate any laws. Strict rules apply when the Company does business with governmental agencies and officials (as discussed in more detail below). Company Personnel should discuss with their manager or department head any gifts or proposed gifts about which they have any questions.

Company Personnel are expected to comply with the principles set out in this Code as well as the standards set out in the Company's Anti-Corruption and Bribery Policy. Although the principles above refer only to Company Personnel, Company Personnel should also exercise care to avoid actual or potential conflicts of interest that may arise because of the activities of their immediate family members and other members of their household.

4. Payments to Government Personnel: As set out in the Company's Anti-Corruption and Bribery Policy all Company Personnel must comply with all laws prohibiting improper payments to domestic and foreign officials. Other governments have laws regarding business gifts that may be accepted by government personnel. The promise offer or delivery to an official or employee of various governments of a gift, favor or other gratuity in violation of these laws would not only violate the Company's policies but could also be a criminal offence. Illegal payments should not be made to government officials of any country. The General Counsel of the Company or a designate from the Company's legal department can provide guidance to Company Personnel in this area.
5. Reporting a Conflict: Conflicts of interest are prohibited as a matter of policy, except as may be approved by the Board. Conflicts of interest may not always be clear-cut. If you have a question, you should consult with your manager or department head. Any Company Personnel who become aware of a conflict or potential conflict should bring it to the attention of a manager or department head and consult the procedures described below under "Compliance Procedures". The Company requires honest and accurate recording and reporting of information to make responsible business decisions. The Company's accounting records are relied upon to produce reports for management, directors, securityholders, governmental agencies and persons with whom the Company does business. # Code of Conduct and Ethics

Waivers of the Code

Any waiver of this Code for directors or executive officers may be made only by the Board (or a committee of the Board to whom that authority has been delegated) and will be promptly disclosed as required by law or stock exchange regulation.

The Company has adopted a Whistleblower Policy to assist in this regard. It is the policy of the Company not to allow retaliation for reports of misconduct by others made in good faith. It is, at the same time, unacceptable to file a report knowing that it is false. All Company Personnel are expected to cooperate in internal investigations of misconduct.

Compliance Procedures

All Company Personnel must work to ensure prompt and consistent action against violations of this Code. However, in some situations it is difficult to know right from wrong. Since the Company cannot anticipate every situation that will arise, it is important that Company Personnel have a way to approach a new question or problem. These are the steps to keep in mind:

- Make sure you have all the facts. To reach the right solutions, we must be as fully informed as possible.
- Ask yourself: What specifically am I being asked to do? Does it seem unethical or improper? This will help you to focus on the specific question you are faced with and the alternatives you have. Use your judgment and common sense - if something seems like it might possibly be unethical or improper, it probably is.
- Clarify your responsibility and role. In most situations, there is shared responsibility. Are your colleagues informed? It may help to get others involved and discuss the problem.
- Discuss the problem with your manager. This is the basic guidance for all situations. In many cases, your manager will be more knowledgeable about the question and will appreciate being brought into the decision-making process. Remember that it is your manager's responsibility to help solve problems.

Code of Conduct and Ethics

- Seek help from company resources. In the rare case where it may not be appropriate to discuss an issue with your manager or where you do not feel comfortable approaching your manager with your question, discuss it locally with other senior personnel. If that is not appropriate for any reason, contact either the General Counsel, the Chief Financial Officer, or the Chief Executive Officer, or follow the avenues set out in the Company Whistleblower Policy.
- You may report ethical violations in confidence and without fear of retaliation. If your situation requires that your identity be kept secret, your anonymity will be protected. The Company does not permit retaliation of any kind against Company Personnel for good faith reports of ethical violations.
- Always ask first, act later: If you are unsure of what to do in any situation, seek guidance before you act.
